FOREWORD

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards institutes (ISO member bodies). The work of developing International Standards is carried out through ISO technical committees. Every member body interested in a subject for which a technical committee has been set up has the right to be represented on that committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work.

Draft International Standards adopted by the technical committees are circulated to the member bodies for approval before their acceptance as International Standards by the ISO Council.

International Standard ISO 4567 was developed by Technical Committee ISO/TC 8, Shipbuilding, and was circulated to the member bodies in November 1976.

It has been approved by the member bodies of the following countries :

Belgium	India	Poland
Brazil	Italy	Romania
Chile	Korea, Dem. P. Rep. of	Spain
Czechoslovakia	Korea, Rep. of	Sweden
France	Mexico	Turkey
Germany	Netherlands	United Kingdom

The member bodies of the following countries expressed disapproval of the document on technical grounds :

Japan
U.S.S.R.

Shipbuilding — Yachts — Waste water fittings

1 SCOPE AND FIELD OF APPLICATION

The International Standard specifies the main characteristics for waste water pump-out fittings on board yachts.

2 REFERENCE

ISO 228/1, *Pipe threads where pressure-tight joints are not made on the threads — Part 1: Designation, dimensions and tolerances.*¹⁾

3 CHARACTERISTICS

The main dimensions shall be as shown on figure 1; in particular the thread shall be according to ISO 228/1.

NOTE — The figure does not determine the design.

This fitting shall have a sealing cap the design of which is left to the discretion of the manufacturer.

3 MARKING

The waste water fittings complying with this International Standard shall be marked by the symbol shown in figure 2.

This symbol shall be placed visibly on the flange or on the cap in the absence of a flange.
