Add the following subclause at the end of 1.7.1:

1.7.1.Z1 For all STAND ALONE POWER SUPPLIES, the operating instructions and/or the installation instructions shall state the type of equipment the POWER SUPPLIES are intended to be interconnected with.

For all COMPONENT POWER SUPPLIES these instructions shall state the type of equipment the POWER SUPPLIES are intended to be used with, in accordance with the annexes, if any, that have been applied in addition to the main body of the standard.

Examples of possible declarations are:

- Where the product has only been tested to the main body of this standard: “This power supply is intended only to be used in connection with information technology equipment.”
- Where the product has only been tested to the main body of this standard and Annex PS-A: “This power supply is intended only to be used in connection with information technology equipment and/or equipment for measurement, control and laboratory use.”
- Where the product has only been tested to the main body of this standard and Annex PS-D: “This power supply is intended only to be used in connection with information technology equipment and/or audio, video and/or similar electronic apparatus.”
- Where the product has only been tested to the main body of this standard and Annexes PS-A and PS-D: “This power supply is intended only to be used in connection with information technology equipment and/or equipment for measurement, control and laboratory use and/or audio, video and/or similar electronic apparatus.” (standards.iteh.ai)
