Foreword

ISO (the International Organization for Standardization) is a worldwide federation of national standards bodies (ISO member bodies). The work of preparing International Standards is normally carried out through ISO technical committees. Each member body interested in a subject for which a technical committee has been established has the right to be represented on that committee. International organizations, governmental and non-governmental, in liaison with ISO, also take part in the work.

Draft International Standards adopted by the technical committees are circulated to the member bodies for approval before their acceptance as International Standards by the ISO Council. They are approved in accordance with ISO procedures requiring at least 75 % approval by the member bodies voting.

International Standard ISO 11699-2 was prepared by Technical Committee ISO/TC 135, Non-destructive testing, Subcommittee SC 5, Radiation methods.

ISO 11699 consists of the following parts under the general title Non-destructive testing — Industrial radiographic films:

— Part 1: Classification of film systems for industrial radiography

— Part 2: Control of film processing by means of reference values

Annex A forms an integral part of this part of ISO 11699.
